Dear Emma,

I wanted to write this letter to tell you how pleased I was with the final article that was published in RPI! The graphics and the writing far exceeded my expectations! I was most appreciative of the writing style as it should engage our families who may be interested in participating in our research study. The magazine article was absolutely beautiful and the website was terrifically assembled and easy to negotiate.

Working with you and your team was straightforward and enjoyable. It was easy to upload possible figures and provide background literature for your team. The process also moved quickly so that the first drafts were quickly available. We are looking forward to reaching a broad audience to help inform them of our research and the topic itself – which we believe is important to families.

For researchers considering working with RPI – I would recommend RPI without hesitation!

Sincerely yours,
